The Gynecological Cancer Awareness Project is a foundation that was created by the practice of Dr. Luis Padilla-Paz, Women's Cancer and Surgical Care PC, for women battling gynecological cancer in New Mexico. Our mission is to lead the progressive transformation of gynecological cancer care and support in NM. Services include: awareness and prevention, education materials and seminars, patient advocacy, patient navigation, volunteer training and opportunities. In a holistic treatment environment the Project provides gynecological cancer education through classes and a library, offers monthly social groups for patients to connect to peer support. Financial assistance for eligible patients of the Women's Cancer and Surgical Care practice, or its satellites, for non-medical expenses as rent, mortgage, child care, gas, utilities and transportation. Payments are made to a third party.

Transportation relay services run from Silver City, Monday–Thursday to Albuquerque and El Paso. Vets are also picked up in designated locations in Bayard, Hurley, Santa Clara, Deming and Hatch. Van leaves Silver City by 1:30 a.m. for Albuquerque and leaves Albuquerque no later than 2 p.m., arriving back in Silver City around 7 p.m. Therefore medical appointments must be scheduled between 7:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. Caregivers may ride along the first time, after which they must have an approval letter from the doctor. Always inform coordinator if caregiver is riding along, as seats in the van are limited. Rides must be scheduled at least three days in advance, but the earlier the better. If need to cancel, please give at least three days notice. Contact Bill Hovarter at above number or at (575) 590-3172, including Hidalgo County. For Luna contact Don Sanner at (575) 494-7548 or (575) 546-4060. For transportation to local medical appointments contact Grant County Senior Services.

Formerly Una Mano Amiga - Cancer Patient Navigator program.

Gila Regional Medical Center recognizes the critical role of a cancer patient navigator. Rachel Benavidez was previously working under a grant funded program to assist patients with the diagnosis of cancer and access to programs. Late in 2011 the funding for this program was discontinued. However the need for patient navigator resources is continuous. Rachel will continue to provide navigator services with New Mexico Oncology at GRMC. Many of our in-patients who are experiencing chronic medical issues will also be offered the opportunity to receive assistance and support from Rachel through her role in Case Management.

Glossary

- Barium Enema – A series of x-rays of the large intestine taken after an enema containing a barium solution is given. The barium solution outlines the large intestines on the x-rays.
- Biopsy – The surgical removal of a small piece of tissue for microscopic examination to check for cancer cells.
- Breast and Cervical Cancer (BCC) Program – A New Mexico Department of Health program dedicated to improving access to high-quality breast and cervical cancer screening and diagnostic services for women who are underserved and increasing public awareness through education about prevention, disease processes and the importance of annual well-woman exams for early detection.
- CT/CAT Scan – An x-ray test using a computer to produce a detailed picture of a cross-section of the body.
- Chemotherapy – Treatment with drugs that kill cancer cells.
- Colonoscopy – A test that allows the doctor to view the entire (upper and lower) colon and rectum by inserting a thin, light tube (fiber optic instrument) called a colonoscopy into the rectal opening. The instrument is used not only for visual purposes, but allows the doctor to take small samples of tissue for examination under a microscope.
- Diagnosis – The process of identifying a disease by the signs and symptoms.
- Digital Rectal Exam (DRE) – An examination in which a doctor inserts a lubricated, gloved finger into the rectum to feel for abnormalities.
- Endoscopy – This is a type of biopsy in which the doctor uses a thin lighted tube to look at areas inside the body, take pictures, and remove tissue or cells for examination, if necessary.
- Fecal Occult Blood Test (FOBT)/Stool Occult Blood Test – Detects invisible amounts of blood in the stool, a possible sign of colon cancer. A small amount of a stool specimen is collected on a chemically treated card, which is tested in a laboratory for evidence of blood. If blood is confirmed in the stool, additional tests may be performed to find the source of the bleeding.
- Hematology – The branch of medicine that deals with diseases of the blood and blood forming organs.
- Human Papillomavirus (HPV) – Viruses that generally cause wart-like growths on the genitals. Some papillomaviruses are sexually transmitted. Some human papillomaviruses cause abnormal changes in cells of the cervix that can lead to the development of cancer.
- Localized – Within the same part of the body.
- Lymphedema – An accumulation of fluid in the arm or leg that may develop when lymphatic vessels or nodes have been removed or blocked in the underarm or groin.
- Malignant – Cancerous. Malignant tumors can invade and destroy nearby tissue and spread to other parts of the body.
- Mammogram – An x-ray of the breast.
- Mastectomy – Surgical removal of the breast to remove a malignant tumor.
- Medical Oncologist – A doctor who specializes in diagnosing and treating cancer using chemotherapy, hormone therapy and biological therapy. A medical oncologist often serves as the person's main caretaker and coordinates treatment provided by the other specialists.

Melanoma – A form of skin cancer that begins in melanocytes (the cells that make the pigment melanin). Melanoma usually begins in a mole.

Metastasize – When cancer spreads from one part of the body to another.

MRI – A procedure using a magnet linked to a computer to create pictures of areas inside the body.

Occupational Therapy – Helps in the development of physical skills that aid daily living.

Oncology – The branch of medicine concerned with the study and treatment of tumors.

Orthotics – Concerned with the design, fitting and manufacturing of devices that correct deformities.

Pap (Papanicolaou) Test/Pap Smear – A procedure in which cells are scraped from a woman's cervix for examination under a microscope. It is used to detect cancer and changes that may lead to cancer. A Pap test can also show noncancerous conditions, such as infection or inflammation.

Prosthetic – An artificial extension that replaces a normal body part.

PSA (Prostate Specific Antigen) Test – A blood test that measures the level of prostate-specific antigen (PSA), a substance produced by the prostate and some other tissues in the body. Increased levels of PSA may be a sign of prostate cancer.

Radiation Oncologist – A doctor who specializes in using high-energy radiation from x-rays, neutrons, and other sources to treat cancer.

Respite Care – provides a caregiver temporary relief from the responsibilities of caring for an individual.

Screening – Checking for disease when there are no symptoms.

Sigmoidoscopy – A test that allows the doctor to view the lower colon and rectum by inserting a thin, lighted tube (fiber optic instrument) called a sigmoidoscope into the rectal opening. A doctor can obtain tissues samples if needed.

Tumor – An abnormal mass of tissue that results when cells divide more than they should or do not die when they should. Tumors may be benign (not cancerous) or malignant (cancerous). Also called neoplasm.
